Measure of a Man

Jack Ingram

I was fifteen left home young tore up the tracks and then some me and my dad didnt see eye to eye I never took to him he never took the time bullet proof more than tough smarter than he ever waswell I burned those wheels down the highway and I learned what I learned the hard way do the best you can do love many trust few work hard for the money in your hands thats the measure of a man yeah the measure of a man Anger burns, love cools it down Pretty young woman turned my head around The world through her eyes looked so different She lives on faith, she looks for forgiveness Fool proof, it ain't easy I need her, she needs meShe stole my heart on this highway She taught me to love through the hard days Yeah she's cool when I'm not, she's as steady as a rock She's as solid as the ring on my hand That's the measure of a man Yeah the measure of a manLast night she handed me a son of my own It killed me to do it, but I picked up the phone Hey dad I burned ten years down this highway And I learned what I learned the hard way Truth is I need you, we'll cry if we need to And I'll swallow my pride if you can That's the measure of a man Oh yeah, the measure of a man
